Cross country teams gearing up for season

News-Messenger reports

High school cross country teams swing into action next week.

The boys and girls teams will compete over 3.1-mile courses.

Following is an outlook at the area teams:

ROSS

The experience is there but depth will be a problem this season for the Rossboys team Coach John Elder said. There are just eight runners on the squad.

"Looking back," Elder said, "we did not have that many distance runners last spring in track, but I'll take seven or eight hard worker rather than 15 semi-hard workers."

Five lettermen, three of them seniors, are on the Ross squad. Aaron Potter, Chad Wodrich and Scott Rosenberger are the seniors. Juniors Shane Hill and Mark Schwartz are the other lettermen. Also on the squad are senior Brian Gillogly and junior Phil Missig.

Karen Turley heads up the Ross girls squad. She had five returning letter winners among her nine runners.

Seniors Lisa Abdoo, Stacy Pasch, Natalie Albert and Kim Reineck plus sophomore Bridget Boda lettered last season. Albert lettered as a sophomore but missed last season because of an injury.

"We have a good nucleus," Turley said, "and some of the younger runners are looking strong."

Also on the Ross girls squad are seniors Dawn Brooks and Amy Norris, sophomore Amy Ritzman and freshman Leah Lomax.

ler, juniors Jenny Ayres and Melissa Dickman and sophomore Michelle Luc round out the Streaks returning letter winners. Add to that group promising freshman Monica Rodriguez and Logsdon feels his team will be a force to reckon with again this season.

CLYDE

Regional meet qualifier Tim Kritzel leads a trio of returning letterman for Coach Joe Stickney's team.

Kritzel and Craig Nagy lettered as juniors and Jim Rainey is a returned junior.

"We were one-and-eight last season," Stickney said, "but this year we are a lot stronger. I am encouraged."

Among his 11 runners, Stickney has six freshman up from the junior high program.

GIBSONBURG

Thirteen boys and 10 girls are on the first teams of new Coach Mark Dooley.

For the boys, senior letterman Steve Mitchell, Brian Benefield, Tim Haney and Rick Potts will be joined by letterman underclassmen Tom Wasserman, Don Miller and Ryan Seman. Joe Pertner is another returnee but did not letter last season.

"Most of the boys are two-year lettermen," Dooley, who works at the Home Banking Co., in Gibsonburg said. Dooley has previous coaching experience in Michigan.

Beth Ruggiero, Stacy Hart, Machele Sleek, Cindy Reineck and Chris Balsizer are returning letter winners on the girls team. The squad has just one senior: Janna Hill.

Wrong turn costly for Gibsonburg runners

News-Messenger reports

A funny thing happened on the way to a would-be opening victory for the Gibsonburg cross country team Tuesday. They lost their way.

The Golden Bears had their top five boys runners disqualified and Lakota also had a runner disqualified in a quad meet with Fremont Ross at Northwood Tuesday. The meet was the opener for all four teams.

"It was pretty confusing," said Lakota Coach Don Windom. "It's kind of a shame it had to happen, but somebody took a wrong turn. We don't know what went wrong."

"What a mess," said Ross

Cross Country

Coach John Elder. "The outcome probably wouldn't have been a whole lot different had everyone run the course correctly, but when something like this happens, you have to disqualify them."

Lakota's Dale Smith crossed the finish line first, but he and the five Gibsonburg runners who followed all were disqualified for their unintended shortcut. As a result, no team scores were available from the boys meet.

Ross's top runner in the meet was Aaron Potter, who finished seventh in a time of 18:21. Randy Brown was the first official Lakota finisher in 18:49, good for ninth place.
