Julius Salgado assumed a squatting position while glaring down at the Fremont Ross track as he waited to run his leg in the Greater Buckeye Conference 1,600-meter relay final Friday.

The Little Giant junior was searching for a bit of inspiration from deceased grandfather, Henry Fenske.

"I pray before each meet that he'll help me pull through it," Salgado said. "I think he helped me out this time."

A simpler conclusion suggests that Salgado is more than capable with or without the aid of a spiritual influence.

Salgado broke the 110 meter conference hurdle record by more than a second and helped the 1,600 team claim victory to boost the host Little Giants to their second consecutive league crown.

The Ross boys have not been defeated in an invitational or dual meet this season.

"When we lost our distance people (to graduation) last year, we were afraid we were going to drop," Salgado said. "We thought we were going to have to make up a lot. We just have a bunch of underclassmen pulling it up. It's a lot better than I expected."

Ross outdistanced second place Napoleon 171-101.5. The Little Giant girls finished fifth with 44 points. Napoleon scored 136 points to capture the girls title.

Adam Wilhelm of Ross was named the league's top male runner while teammate Rob Durnwald was given the award for the top male in the field events. Little Giant coach Cathy Esposito was voted the meet's boys coach of the year for the second season in a row by her league coaching peers.

Henry Fenske died over a year ago from a battle with pancreatic cancer. He resided in the same household as Salgado and was one of his biggest fans.

"He showed up to every practice, every meet, every game, for every sport I played," Salgado said. "He was always there with me and now that he's gone, I try to keep him in my thoughts."

The 3,200 relay team broke the 20-year-old school record with a time of 8:06.8. The squad, consisting of Elon Simms, Nathan Bowen, Austin Young and Brandon McDonald bested second-place Findlay by nearly 27 seconds.

Simms, who will sign with The Ohio State University in the near future, was inserted in the lineup because of the prospect of breaking the school mark.

"That was nice. After the race he went over and collapsed," Young said. "He was so tired. He gave it all he had."

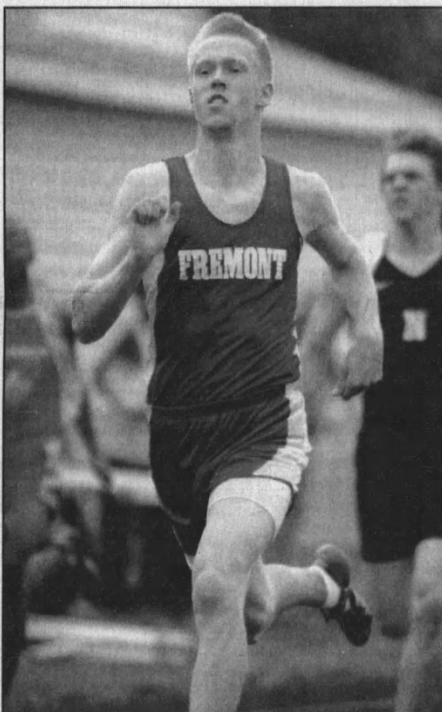

Bowen also welcomed the addition of Simms to the relay.

"I didn't think we broke it when he first crossed the finish line," Bowen said. "I was watching the clock, and I thought it was 8:07, but it was 8:06."

"The most important thing is all the people who don't run (in competition), they make you work so hard in practice," he continued. "That's what makes you better."

The Little Giants' Ashley Fischer won the 1,600, setting a new league mark.

Because Simms competed in the 3,200 he was substituted for in the 1,600 relay. Wilhelm, who usually runs third, replaced Simms as the anchor and trailed by about 15 meters when he was handed the baton. He quickly caught a Napoleon runner and held him off to win by 17 tenths of a second.

"I'm so confident in him," said Young, the relay's leadoff runner.

"He can be 20-30 yards behind, and I'm confident he'll catch up. He won't let someone pass him life that."

Running alongside Simms and Wilhelm, Young is often overlooked. Esposito believes Young's role is very consequential in the performance of the relays.

"I think when you realize that it took four guys to accomplish what the 3,200 and the 1,600 have — he's a real important part of that," Esposito said. "He's our leadoff leg. He gets it all started."

Salgado made a bold prediction that the Little Giants will send their largest contingent ever to the state meet. He also said that a top-five team finish in Ohio is within reason.

"A lot of it has to do with his whole attitude towards the sport," Esposito said. "He's fallen in love with the sport."
