Braves Get Ben . . .

Ben Colopy, who was slated to re-enter the Green Sox fold this spring, has signed with the Mansfield Braves in a neat business transaction.

Colopy made his home here since released by the Sox last summer after throwing an elbow out of joint. He gave distinct promise as a mound prospect before his mishap and Fremont club officials had hoped to line him up for the coming campaign.

But just the other day, Ben consented to sign a Brave contract under the condition that he be given a job until the spring drills open. Joe Blahnik, chief coach of the Mansfield Downtown Coaches Association, heard of the matter and promised the young benedict the job when he learned that he would be of much help to the Braves.

Wednesday, Colopy went to work at Blahnik's Montgomery Ward store in Mansfield. The ex-Fremont tosser came to Mansfield in an attempt to gain employment and wished to remain near his parents' home at Danville. Colopy

COLUMBUS, O., March 8.—¹⁹⁴⁰
Ten scholastic basketball stars —each a 2300-to-1 shot at the beginning of the season campaign —have been selected as the All-Ohio as the Associated Press selected its 1940 all-state high school basketball team.

Five in Class A and five in Class

B battled their way to the peak from among the approximately 25,000 boys entered on the Ohio high school records. In the no-part in their selection, individual play alone being considered by the coaches and sports writers who co-operated in naming the stars into the hall of fame.

They come from everywhere—

from the crossroads and the cities
