First tournament matches can make or break

When Fremont Ross wrestler Aaron Root was beaten by Cincinnati Moeller's Sean Cronin in the first round of last year's state tournament, he lost more than a match.

He lost control.

Because he was beaten in the first round, Root needed Cronin to win his second-round match to pull Root back into the modified double-elimination tournament. The format, used in sectional, district and state tournaments, creates anxiety in the early rounds.

In Root's case, Cronin lost in Round 2, knocking the 215-pound Little Giant out of the state tournament.

"It hurts," said Root, a senior. "You work that hard all year and it can be over just like that."

Root is among 50 area wrestlers who will compete today and Saturday at district meets, hoping to qualify for next week's state meet in Fairborn.

Coaches are readying their troops for those initial battles.

"All we want them to think about is winning that first match," Oak Harbor coach George Bergman said.

Clyde coach Jim Carothers said, "The first one is critical. If you want to control your own destiny, you have to start right in that first match."

Ross coach Grover Dowell added, "It's the most important match of the year. If you lose ... you have to rely on your opponent."

Derek Wensinger, a junior who wrestles 125, is Ross's best starter. "He comes out the quickest," Dowell said. "He's more mentally prepared right off the first whistle. The other guys take a period or two or a whole match to get into the match."

Wensinger is focusing more on his mind than his body.

"You have to get prepared mentally," Wensinger said. "At this point everyone's got the skills.

You've just got to get the mental part down."

Ross 145-pounder Tyler Lawrence is making his first appearance in districts.

"If you win the first match it takes off a lot of pressure," Lawrence said. "That way I don't have to sit around and wait for his next match."

Little Giant senior Eric Lindsey survived his 189-pound first-round match at sectionals — barely.

"I was real nervous in sectionals and it threw me out of my game in the first period," Lindsey said. "When I relaxed, I started to hit my moves. I have to be more offensive instead of waiting."

The Ross foursome will compete at the Division I district meet at Hilliard Darby High School, while wrestlers from Bellevue, Clyde and Oak Harbor wrestle in the Div. II meet at Galion. Div. III wrestlers from St. Joseph Central Catholic, Lakota, Margaretta, Woodmore and Gibsonburg travel to Postoria.

Local schools send 25 wrestlers to state

By CHUCK KRUMEL
News-Messenger correspondent

FOSTORIA — Six wrestlers representing Fremont St. Joseph, Margaretta and Lakota high schools are among 25 area wrestlers headed to the state tournament this week at Wright State University's Nutter Center in Fairborn.

Jamie LeJeune of St. Joseph Central Catholic, Justin West, Jared Lowery and Adam Thacker of Lakota, and Gregg Pressler and Dane Bonningson of Margaretta placed in the top five in the Division III district Saturday at Fostoria High School.

Forty-five schools participated in the event. Delta High School amassed 218.5 team points to win the district title.

Sandusky St. Mary's was the runner-up, finishing with 95.5 points.

LeJeune finished second to Delta's Derek Rathbun in the 125-pound championship match, losing a close 11-7 decision in the title match.

LeJeune fell behind 9-1 after one period in the title match, but recovered in the second and third periods to nearly come back and steal the match from Rathbun.

"Jamie (LeJeune) in the sectional finals and again in this final, it was the first period that hurt him," St. Joe head coach Chuck Lenhart said. "He gave up a five-point move here (early in the match) and other than that it was a pretty close match."

LeJeune allowed only two more points to be scored against him in the match in rallying to try and overcome the deficit only to run out of time.

"He (Rathbun) is a good wrestler," LeJeune said. "After getting behind in the first period, it just took me out of my groove."

In addition to LeJeune, St. Joe's Mark Szymanowski (135), Adam Jenkins (189), Dave
