Robbins propels Ross girls

News-Messenger reports

Sophomore point guard Natalie Robbins made a lasting impression on Ross coach Sue Wolf during the Little Giants' 48-37 season-opening victory over host Bellevue on Saturday.

Robbins, making her first varsity start, scored a team-high 11 points and had 11 rebounds, 10 steals and three blocked shots.

"Natalie had a good game, for her first start on the varsity," Wolf said. "We're a young team; the people with the most experience for us both got in foul trouble in the first half. The kids that came in, I was real happy with the way they played.

"The bench did a good job for us."

In other action Saturday, Port Clinton lost to Toledo Central Catholic 49-36 and Oak Harbor lost to Swanton 62-58 in the consolation game of the Eastwood Tournament.

Bellevue fell to 0-2 with its second loss in as many days.

Ross opened up an 11-6 lead after the first quarter and extended it to 28-19 at halftime. The Little Giants then outscored the Redmen 10-7 in the third quarter to secure the victory.

Andrea McGee added nine points for the winners, while Heather Sherman scored nine for Bellevue.

Huron nips Ross

News-Messenger reports

Effort meant a lot to Fremont Ross girls basketball coach Sue Wolf Tuesday night.

Although the Little Giants suffered a 51-50 loss to Huron when Cortney Cominsky's layup rolled off the rim as time ran down, Wolf appreciated their effort.

"I knew we would have our work cut out for us," Wolf said. "We did a lot of things wrong and we did a lot of things right.

"To be right there and playing at their school, what more could you ask for. I wish it would have turned out the other way, but I think we will learn from the experience."

Huron returns four straters from last year's team, while Cominsky is the only starter back for Ross.

"I told her to take it to the basket," Wolf said of Cominsky's game-winning attempt.

After Cominsky's shot missed, Janean Schenk rebounded for Ross but never got a shot off as time expired.

Ross, 1-1, landed four players in double figures. Cominsky led the way with 14 points, Becky Williams had 12 and Kim Crawford and Andrea McGee each had 10.

Ross shades Whitmer in OT

By TIM HARMON
Staff writer

The Fremont Ross girls went to basketball school Thursday night.

After Toledo Whitmer turned a nine-point Ross lead into a two-point Ross deficit, the Little Giants persevered for a 51-47 overtime victory in their Great Lakes League opener.

"It's great," Ross coach Sue Wolf said. "In the last game (a 51-50 loss to Huron Tuesday night), we lost the lead and lost the game. So this is a great comeback. We did learn something from the game.

"The kids understand why we lost the game over there, and I think they took it and applied it to this game and it worked out for us.

"Hopefully, that's a great lesson."

Ross (2-1) led 45-36 with 6:19 left to play, but a 11-0 Whitmer run gave the Panthers a 47-45 lead with 1:36 remaining.

"We got a little flustered ... we did some dumb things," Wolf said of the Little Giants play down the stretch. "When we ran our offense ... when we were patient enough to run our offense, we pulled away from them."

Leah Lomax, who made a key steal and erased the blackboard in the schoolroom with a pair of free throws in the overtime, turned a Whitmer turnover into a layup with 1:03 to play — sending the game into the extra period.

The Little Giants had a chance to win the game in regulation, but Whitmer's Lisa Lippincott blocked a Cortney Cominsky shot with 3.2 seconds to go. Ross's sophomore point guard, Natalie Robbins, misfired from long range as time expired.

In the overtime, Becky Williams' short jumper along the right baseline put Ross on top with 1:39 remaining.

After Robbins missed a free throw in the bonus situation, Whitmer (1-2) tried to set itself up for what appeared to be a three-point attempt after Ross failed to take advantage of Lomax's steal with 57 seconds left in the game.

Leslie Reichlin, who led the Panthers with 13 points, made three 3-pointers in the game. She was fouled on another attempt and converted two of the three free throws she was awarded.

She never got another attempt when Whitmer's sophomore point guard, Holly Sebring, drove to the basket and threw the ball away with 35.6 seconds left.

"We told her to penetrate, but we didn't mean penetrate and throw the ball at the basket," Whitmer coach Jck Mattimore said. "We wanted her to penetrate and bring it back out. We were probably going to take a timeout with 15 seconds left."

Lomax's two foul shots with 26.5 seconds to go sealed the victory.

The free throws were the last of the Little Giants' 17 in 19 attempts. Ross made 15 of 15 in the first half.

Aside from Robbins' miss in overtime, the only other time the Little Giants didn't convert from the line was when Andrea McGee entered the lane too soon on a Lomax attempt in the fourth quarter — which happened to go in.

Ross made just 8 of 21 free throws in its loss to Huron.

"We worked about 10 minutes (on foul shooting), and we shot them when we scrimmaged (in practice) and I think God likes us," Wolf said.

The Little Giants led throughout most of the first half, but Whitmer took a 23-21 lead in the second quarter on a turnaround shot by Lippincott. Two free throws by Cominsky and two by Robbins, though, gave Ross a 25-23 lead, which it expanded to 29-23 at halftime.

"We didn't run our offense," Mattimore said. "In the second quarter, we had something like 27 possessions and got six shots."

Whitmer also hurt itself with untimely turnovers — committing 26 in the game, including 16 in the first half; and the Panthers made just 4 of 13 free throws.

Cominsky led Ross with 16 points, Williams added 13 and Lomax and McGee each chipped in eight. Lomax passed for five assists.

Ross girls knock off previously unbeaten Northview

By SCOTT KIRSCH
Staff correspondent

The Fremont Ross girls basketball team used a strong fourth quarter to knock Sylvania Northview from the ranks of the undefeated 55-45 Saturday.

The Little Giants broke open a close Great Lakes League game by outscoring the Wildcats 12-3 in the fourth quarter.

"It was great," Ross coach Sue Wolf said. "We've been suffering a lot and that was a great win for us."

Ross, 3-3 and 2-1 in the GLL, is now tied with Northview for second place in the league. Napoleon is undefeated in three league games.

Northview, 4-1, outscored Ross 12-7 in the third quarter, but when Courtney Cominsky split a pair of free throws with 23 seconds left in the period, Ross led 33-32.

"They just outplayed us," Northview coach Jerry Sigler said. "It was that simple. They wanted it and we didn't."

Becky Williams, who supported Cominsky's team-high 15 points and eight rebounds with 12 points and six rebounds, opened and closed the fourth quarter with baskets for Ross.

Williams, scored six of her 12 points in the final eight minutes. "She got some key baskets at the end," Wolf said. "I think she put the nail in the coffin."

Trailing 26-20 at halftime, the Wildcats went on an 8-2 run at the outset of the second half. Baskets by Dorey Schmidt and Deanna Kreidel tied the game at 28-28 with 4:26 left in the third quarter.

A basket by Natalie Robbins on the left wing broke the tie, but Kris Crates' layup for Northview made it 30-all. After a steal in the backcourt, Robbins was fouled and sank two free throws.

"She's a young player and she's learning," Wolf said of Robbins. "She's very quick; she's deceptively quick."

A turnaround jumper by Crates tied the game for the last time before Cominsky's foul shot gave Ross the lead for good.

A free throw by Erin Marciniak with 1:06 remaining in the game and a short jump shot by Crates seconds later gave the Wildcats their only points of the fourth quarter.

"Defense in the second half helped us a lot," Wolf said. "Our defense was really hustling."

Ross outrebounded Northview 33-20.

"We didn't do the job on the boards; they did," Sigler said.

By BOB MARKER
Staff writer

Fremont Ross made 12 of 14 shots and outscored Perkins 28-7 in the third quarter paving the way to a 67-42 high school girls basketball victory Saturday.

The Little Giants, 5-3, sank their first four shots of the third period to raise a 27-21 halftime lead to 38-23 in the first three minutes of the second half against the winless Pirates.

After two misses, Ross pumped in the last eight shots of the quarter for a 55-33 lead heading into the final quarter.

"I'm happy with the way we played," Ross coach Sue Wolf said. "The bench kids came in and played very well."

Nine of 12 Little Giants scored with Andrea McGee leading a trio of double-figure scorers with 15 points.

"Andrea needed to have a game like that," Wolf said.

Becky Williams added 14 and Cortney Cominsky tossed in 10 for Ross.

"Cominsky and Williams played good floor games," Wolf said, "and I am very pleased with the way those kids came out and executed in the fourth quarter. Those are the ones that don't play that much but they executed very well."

Janean Schenk and Kim Crawford scored eight and seven points, respectively, off the bench. Crawford scored all her points in the final eight minutes.

Kasey Manette, spelling McGee, scored five points as Ross post players finished with 20 points.

Ross edges Clay

News-Messenger reports

OREGON — Cortney Cominsky's two free throws with eight seconds remaining Wednesday night gave the Fremont Ross girls basketball team a 47-45 Great Lakes League victory over Oregon Clay.

The Little Giants, 6-3 and 3-1 in the GLL, overcame 29 turnovers but made 17 of 19 foul shots for their first GLL road win.

"Our foul shooting helped us win the game," Ross coach Sue Wolf said. "Our foul shooting helped us overcome the turnovers."

"I can't explain the turnovers. We were trying to force passes, and they were being aggressive."

Clay, 4-6 and 1-3 in league play, did not get a shot off after Cominsky's game-winning free throws.

Cominsky, who made a 3-point basket at the third-quarter buzzer to give Ross a 34-32 lead, and Andrea McGee scored 15 points apiece for Ross.

The game was tied 43-43 when Kim Crawford made two foul shots, giving Ross a two-point lead. Crawford came off the bench when Becky Williams was unable to shoot the foul shots because of an injury.

The Eagles scored following Crawford's free throws to make it 45-all, but Cominsky was fouled while bringing the ball up the court against Clay's press.

Ross outrebounded Clay 31-24, and the Eagles made 17 of 66 shots.

Wolf said if the Eagles had shot better "we would have been in big trouble."

The Little Giants are off until next Wednesday when they host GLL foe Fostoria.

"Hopefully, we will stay sharp until we play Fostoria," Wolf said.

Ross girls upend Waite

By BOB MARKER

Staff writer

Fremont Ross used a duet and a solo while upending Toledo Waite 56-41 in a high school girls basketball game Saturday afternoon in the Purple Pit at Ross High School.

Ross got 23 points from Cortney Cominsky and Becky Williams, taking a 28-16 halftime lead before Andrea McGee exploded for 15 second-half points to hold the Indians at bay.

The loss was only the fourth in 13 games for Waite with the Little Giants climbing to 8-4.

"We played better as a team," Ross coach Sue Wolf said. "The other night at Whitmer (a 50-37 loss), we had problems with a couple people arguing with each other. We got rid of that and they're back ready to play team basketball."

Cominsky, scoring a game-high 16 points, put in 13 in the first half and Williams 10 of her 12. McGee was held scoreless in the first half. Leah Lomax with five first-half points was the only other Ross player scoring in the first half.

After falling behind 6-2, the Little Giants ran to a 10-6 lead before Waite tied it at 10. Cominsky hit a rebound shot and knocked in one more for a 14-10 lead at the quarter and Ross never tailed again.

The Ross defense held Waite's leading scorer, Sonya Washington, to 12 points.

"Cortney did a nice job on her," Wolf said. "We have been putting Cortney on the other teams' best players and she has been doing a nice job."

Ross dominated the rebounding game, a sore spot in the loss to Whitmer. The Little Giants, with McGee grabbing 11, had 47 rebounds and Waite 33. Cominsky and Lomax had eight rebounds apiece and Natalie Robbins seven. Williams grabbed six.

"At Whitmer, we did not hit the boards," Wolf pointed out. "I don't know what happened, we just did not do it. Today, I told them the number one thing was to box out and they did a good job of it."

The only problem Wolf had was slowing her team down on the offensive end while protecting a double-digit last quarter lead.

"Slow down a little bit ... I think some times when you get the lead, you want to go, go, go, instead of doing what got you there," the Ross coach said. "We got there by running our offense."

Ross made 20 of 49 shots and Waite 17 of 41, both 41 percent. Both teams turned the ball over 33 times.

Ross returns to action Tuesday, hosting Clyde. The junior varsity game begins at 6 p.m.

Ross survives Clyde assault

Cominsky hits 29 in OT win

By BOB MARKER
Staff writer

Fremont Ross outscored Clyde 10-2 in overtime, defeating the Fliers 65-57 Tuesday night in a high school girls basketball game in the Purple Pit.

"It was a game of survival," Ross coach Sue Wolf said, "and we will take the win."

Ross, 9-4, erased an 11-point Clyde lead in the second half, scoring 16 straight points in the third and fourth quarters.

"I thought we played well," Clyde coach Lori LaFollette said, "but when it comes down to the heat of things, we just lack experience."

Lee Ann Newsome's basket two minutes into the second half put Clyde up 35-24 before Ross ran off its string of points. Clyde, 3-11, went stone cold in the Little Giants' run, missing its last 12 shots of the quarter.

The Ross streak ended 30 seconds into the final quarter when Becky Williams' basket put the Little Giants up 42-35.

Courtney Cominsky, who finished with 29 points, including 15 from the foul line, and Williams led the Ross charge. Cominsky tossed in six points and Williams eight with Andrea McGee getting the other two. Williams' follow-up basket off her own miss gave Ross its first lead, 36-35 with 1:50 to play in the third period.

After Williams' bucket capped the Ross run, Clyde ran off the next eight points. Maggie Henry, Charity Newsom, Kim Lawrence and Newsome scored in the run with Newsome's putback putting Clyde on top 43-42.

McGee's two free throws and a layup off a Cominsky pass put Ross ahead 47-45. The Little Giants maintained that lead until Newsome's turnaround jumper from 8 feet with seven seconds left sent the game into overtime tied at 55.

Cominsky took over from there, putting Ross ahead 57-55 with a bucket from the top of the foul circle. She followed with 7 of 8 from the foul line.

Clyde's points in overtime came on a pair of free throws by Dottie Beekman with less than a minute to play.

McGee finished with 14 points and Williams 12 for Ross. Newsome led Clyde with 16 and Lawrence added 14. Henry finished with 11.

Clyde built a 31-22 halftime lead with a pressure defense while controlling the boards 24-16.

"Needless to say," Wolf said, "at halftime I told the girls that if we don't box out on rebounds, we are going to get killed. Clyde had 14 offensive rebounds plus we could not put the ball in the basket the first half — that didn't help any."

Ross made 9 of 24 first half shots and Clyde 14 of 37.

Henry and Newsome scored eight points apiece in the first half. Ross hurt itself, missing 7 of 11 first-half free throws.

Ross was 21 of 46 shooting and Clyde 25 of 74. The Little Giants made 23 of 38 foul shots and the Fliers 5 of 12.

The Little Giants committed 36 turnovers, 19 in the second half, with many coming because of the Clyde pressure defense. Clyde had 27 turnovers.

"We have been practicing it (pressure defense)," LaFollette said. "Our best press is our full-court man press; we work on it every night."

"This was our best game that we have played since the first game against Bellevue (a 64-44 Clyde win). Since then, we have been in a slump and we have been down. I felt tonight, the girls gave 110 percent."

Wolf said, "I don't know why the pressure bothered us; we have been pressured all year."

Then the Ross coach had a hunch about about the pressure problem.

"I think we were not mentally ready to play because we were thinking that they had won three games and all we had to do to win was show up," Wolf said. "They (Clyde) are not that type of team; they are going to be a good team. They are young and they are going to be excellent."

Wolf pointed out that her team faces a game at Northview Thursday, a team whose only loss was to the Little Giants.

"It's an important game; if we play like this, we will be in big trouble," she said.

ANDREA MCGEE (35) of Fremont Ross and Lee Ann Newsome of Clyde battle for a rebound during the fourth quarter of the Little Giants' overtime victory over the Fliers Tuesday night.

Napoleon pulls away from Ross girls in GLL

By BOB MARKER
Staff writer

Napoleon grabbed the early lead and held it, defeating Fremont Ross 51-40 Thursday night in the Purple Pit.

The Wildcats, 10-5, are 6-0 in the Great Lakes League while Ross, 9-5, slipped to 3-3 in the league chase.

Ross never seemed to hit its stride.

"We needed to get rid of that one before we move on to the tournament," Ross coach Sue Wolf said after her team's lethargic loss.

"It just wasn't pretty."

— Sue Wolf
Ross coach

---

"We have a game Saturday, so hopefully, we get our act together."

It was never together Thursday after Napoleon ran to a 17-7 first-quarter lead.

Behind the guard play of Amy Flory and Reness Miller, Napoleon never quite let the Little Giants back into the game.

The Wildcats' biggest lead was 41-26 after three quarters and dropped below double figures only once.

"It was see how many turnovers we could make," Wolf said, "making them at the wrong time and making the same turnover more than once. That takes you out of the game in a hurry."

"I can understand the turnover once, but I don't understand the second, third and fourth time."

The Little Giants finished with 27 turnovers, 15 in the second half.

Trailing 29-19 at halftime, Ross quickly dug a deeper hole for itself by turning the ball over six straight times in the third quarter. The Little Giants did not get a shot until Cortney Cominsky's 3-point play midway through the period.

Still, Ross was not completely out of the game.

"That's just it," Wolf said. "As horribly as we played, we still had chances. We were never really out of the game ... that's what's weird."

Napoleon went scoreless for three minutes in the final period as Ross chiseled the deficit to 45-37 with under three minutes to play but got no closer.

Flory finished with 16 points and Miller 16 for the Wildcats. Amanda Huddle added 10. Cominsky scored 15 for Ross and Andrea McGee, hampered by fouls most of the game, finished with eight.

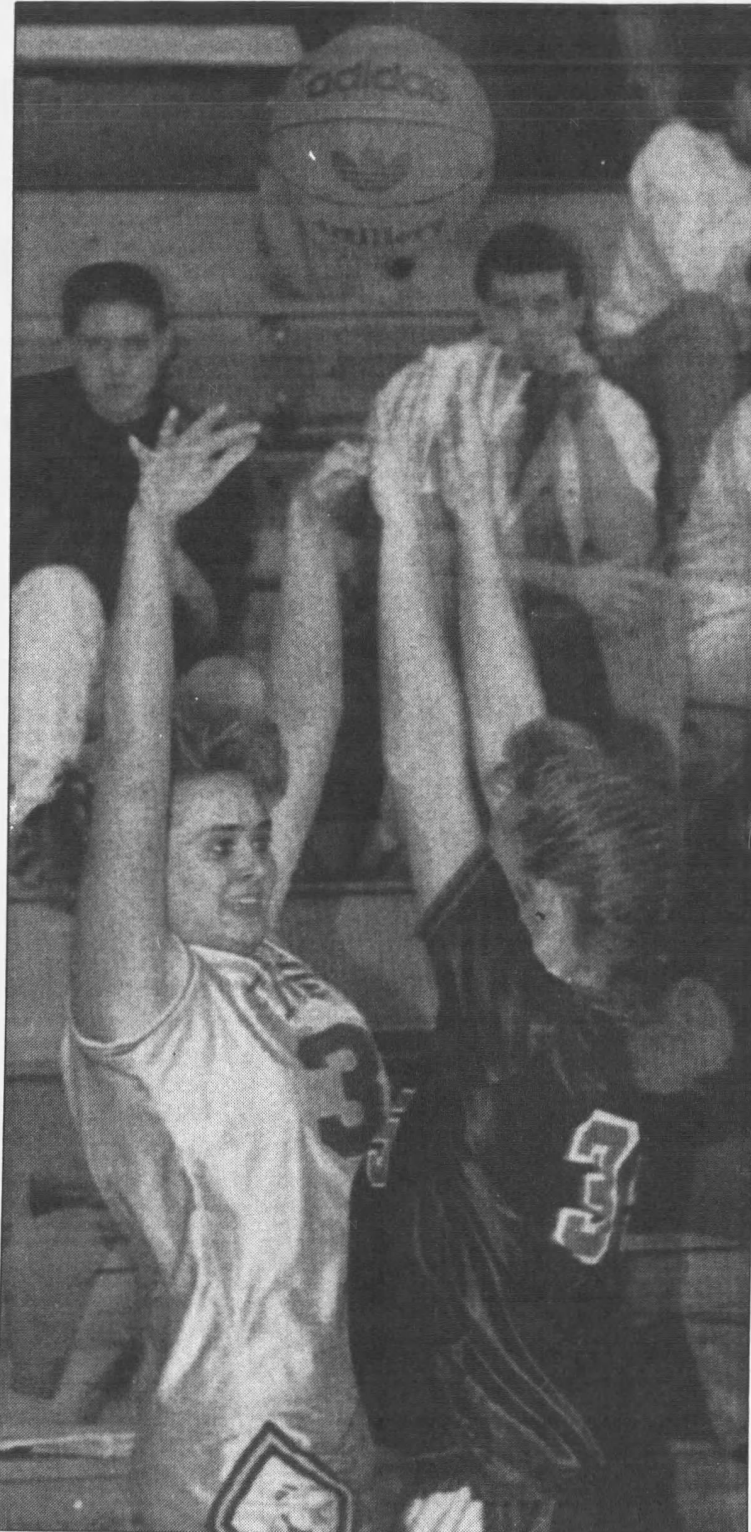

"Flory and Miller are two excellent ball players," Wolf said. "they can do it all."

Her team was having trouble doing anything.

"It just wasn't pretty," she said.

It was one to get out of the Little Giants' system.

Little Giants roll over Fostoria girls 60-28

By BOB MARKER

Fremont Ross made quick work of Fostoria Saturday afternoon in a Great Lakes League high school girls basketball game.

The Little Giants, 10-6, broke a 4-4 deadlock with 22 unanswered points while rolling to a 60-28 victory over the Redmen, 4-13.

The GLL win win raised Ross to 4-4 in the league race while Fostoria sank to 0-9.

The game gave Ross coach Sue Wolf a chance to exercise her bench with nine of the 14 players seeing action, scoring.

"Everyone got to play," Wolf pointed out, "and our defense was not too bad. We were trying to work on a couple of things where we could have done a better job."

The Ross defense was working so well in the breakaway run of points, Fostoria did not get off a shot for the first five minutes of the second quarter.

While Fostoria was having offensive problems, three Little Giants were on their way to double-figure scoring. Andrea McGee led the trio with 14 points. Cortney Cominsky added 13 and Becky Williams came off the bench to score 10. Another substitute, Janean Schenk, tossed in nine points.

Danielle Moore topped Fostoria with 12 points.

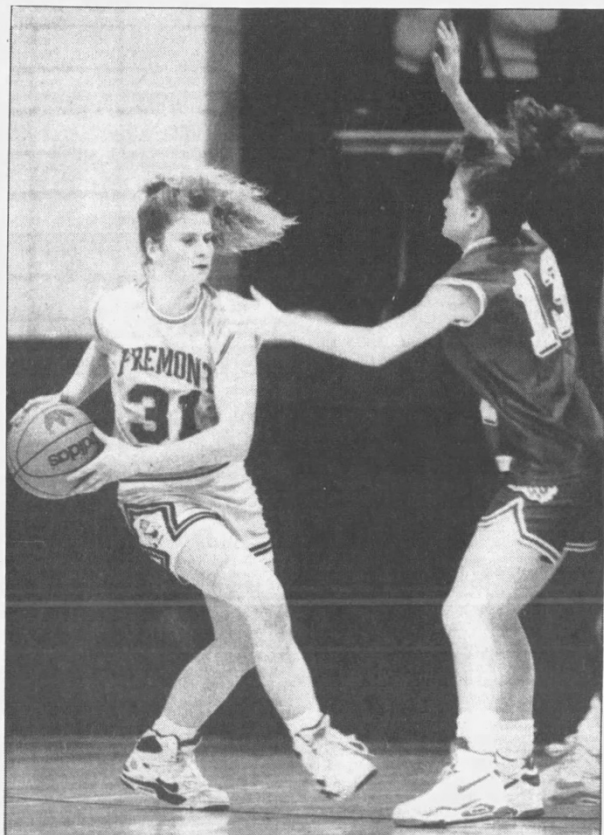

Cominsky scored six points and McGee four as Ross raced to a 12-4 first-quarter lead. Williams scored a half-dozen, Schenk and Kasey Manette four each as the Little Giants' lead blossomed to 32-8 at the half.

The biggest Little Giants' lead was 34 points on three occasions.

"It was nice to have everyone come off the bench," Wolf said. "I thought Casey Manette looked good in the first half and she is coming off a knee injury that she had at Northview."

"Becky Williams came back — I did not start her today — she came off the bench and played better off the bench so there is a possibility I will do that Monday (tonight when Ross hosts Port Clinton)."

The junior varsity game with Port Clinton begins at 6 p.m. tonight in the Purple Pit.

Holyfield's promoter says Tyson's fans real losers

Associated Press

PATERSON, N.J. — Evander Holyfield will have no regrets if he and Mike Tyson never meet in the ring, the heavyweight champion's promoter said Monday night.

Dan Duva said moments after Tyson was convicted of raping a Miss Black America contestant on July 19 that the champion probably will fight Riddick Bowe, Larry Holmes or George Foreman in May or June.

The verdict "just means that Mike Tyson's fans won't be able to see him fight for a while," Duva said.

Holyfield and Tyson were scheduled to fight last November, but that bout was canceled due to Tyson's rib injury and was not rescheduled before Tyson's trial began on Jan. 27.

Tyson was convicted two years to the day that he lost the heavyweight championship to James "Buster" Douglas. Holyfield took the title by beating Douglas on Oct. 25, 1990.

Port Clinton girls whip Little Giants

By BOB MARKER

Heather Seighman threw the first punch, but Fremont Ross knocked itself out Monday night.

Seighman scored 16 points, 13 in the first quarter, as Port Clinton picked up early momentum and rolled to a 63-40 high school girls basketball victory over the Little Giants.

The performance of Seighman may have surprised Ross but it was no surprise to at least two people in the Ross Purple Pit.

"Probably everybody but me and her, maybe," Port Clinton coach Doug Armstrong said about his 5-11 junior's game.

"She has been playing well lately and it has made a difference in our team. It has given us another dimension."

That makes Armstrong's Redskins "3-D."

The other dimensions are the Mann twins, Laurie and Lindsey. Laurie Mann scored 26 points and Lindsey 10.

"Teams have not been able to key in on Laurie and Lindsey so much because Heather has been doing a nice job in the middle," Armstrong said.

"When Laurie and Lindsey penetrated and they were covered, they had some nice dishes (passes to the open player)."

The multi-dimensional Redskins functioned well after grabbing a 23-13 lead in the first quarter. Only once did Ross get the deficit to single digits, 44-36, late in the third quarter.

Port Clinton's attack was coupled with a press that continually rattled the Little Giants. It, however, was not as devastating as the punch Ross threw at itself in the final eight minutes.

The Little Giants scored two points in the quarter, both from the foul line, while missing all 24 of their field goal attempts.

After trailing 49-38 at the end of three quarters, Ross did not score again until Andrea McGee hit the front end of a two-shot foul with 1:44 remaining in the game. By that time, Port Clinton had the game signed, sealed and all but delivered with a 60-39 edge.

Ross made 14 of 69 shots, and it mattered little that the Little Giants held a 55-35 rebounding edge. Courtney Cominsky led Ross with 11 points and McGee added 10.

"We could not put the ball in the basket," Ross coach Sue Wolf said, "when you shoot 14 of 69, you have trouble beating anyone."

Ross was 0-for-9 from 3-point land while trying to pull itself back into the game in the final quarter.

"Offensively they are a good team and they were putting them in and we were not ... sometimes that happens," Wolf said. "It was not their defense because we were getting good shots. We don't normally take 3-point shots like that; we just could not hit our shots."

Armstrong admitted he was concerned before the game but his team quickly dispelled his concerns.

"I am really happy with the way we played tonight," he said. "We were aggressive — Ross was aggressive — but yes, our full-court press got us going."

And kept Ross on the ropes until the Little Giants landed their own knockout punch.

Cortney Cominsky scored 31 points as Ross held off Oregon Clay 55-47 in a Great Lakes League girls basketball victory Thursday night.

Ross, 11-7, is 4-4 in the GLL while Clay, 8-11, fell to 2-6 in the league race.

The Purple Pit encounter was a game in which the Little Giants' cool behavior paid off, according to coach Sue Wolf.

"That is the first time in probably five of six games," Wolf said, "where some one did not blame somebody else for doing something wrong out there; they played like a team."

"We had a big meeting after our last game (a 63-40 loss to Port Clinton), and a lot of people

Little Giants in key clash

News-Messenger reports

Fremont Ross will play Napoleon tonight in a key Great Lakes League boys basketball game.

Napoleon, Toledo Whitmer and Oregon Clay are in a virtual tie for the GLL lead while Ross is a half game behind that trio. Napoleon and Whitmer are 7-2 in the league race, Clay 6-2 and Ross 7-3.

talked things out. I think we are back together again. They said it felt good playing like a team."

Even with that, Ross could not shake the Eagles. Ross led 26-18 at halftime but Clay pulled even at 33-33 on Lori Berryman's bucket late in the third quarter.

Cominsky sank a 3-point basket as time expired in the period, putting Ross up 36-33. Clay never got even again but would not fold.

Ross moved out to a 44-33 lead midway through the final quarter but Adrienne Buffy's two free throws cut the Ross lead to 48-45 with 1:13 to play.

But the cool Little Giants did not panic.

Wolf, again, pointed out the new line of thinking by her team.

"We missed too many easy shots," she said about not putting the Eagles away, "but in the other games when people were missing like that, we were getting mad at people for missing — their teammates were getting mad at them, and they can't do that."

"Tonight, they played like a team and that helped us in crunch time."

Crunch time meant six straight free throws by Cominsky, raising the Ross advantage to 54-45 with 37.7 seconds remaining. That put the game out of the Eagles grasp.

"We missed too many foul shots," Wolf said, "but in the end, we got Cortney on the line and that is who we needed there."

Ross made 17 of 34 foul shots with Cominsky tossing in 13 of 18.

Andrea McGee scored 14 points for Ross, including a pair of putbacks in the final quarter.

Andrea Schumaker led Clay with 15 points and Berryman added 11.

The Little Giants were 18-of-62 shooting and Clay 18-of-57. The Eagles were 10-of-20 at the line.

Little Giants end season with 56-49 win over Findlay

By TIM HARMON
Staff writer

Fremont Ross and Findlay squared off in a girls basketball game Saturday, closing the regular season while priming for the Division I tournament.

The Little Giants, who play Tiffin Columbian in the sectional at Norwalk Middle School Tuesday night, exhibited three things during their 56-49 victory over the Trojans that often result in tournament victories:

Good defense, solid shooting and the ability to respond after falling behind.

After Findlay broke a 23-all halftime tie with eight straight points at the outset of the second half, Ross answered with a 22-6 run for a 45-37 lead with 4:29 remaining in the game.

"They apparently had a little more heart," Findlay coach Bill Lobb said. "We had that big run, and you thought Fremont would be down. But Sue (Ross coach Wolf) called time out, got them jacked up again and they rose to the occasion."

Findlay scored two points in the last 5:20 of the third quarter after Amy Jauert scored six of the Trojans' eight in the opening minutes of the period.

"We've worked very hard on our defense all year long," Wolf said. "The kids have really responded."

"When you get all five people out on the floor playing as a team, you've got great defense, and that's what they're doing."

The Trojans, 12-8, managed 31 percent (22-of-70) shooting.

"We knew we had to stop 50 (Jauert)," Wolf said. "She's a great player. And they're big so when the ball went inside we wanted to double down and get as much pressure on the ball as we could."

Although Jauert led all scorers with 19 points and Adrienne Madison hurt Ross some inside with 14 points, no other Trojan scored more than five points.

"(Jauert) is going to get her points," Wolf said. "We just didn't let her go crazy."

Ross, which improved to 13-7 and matched the 1982-83 Ross team for most victories by a Wolf-coached team, switched from a man-to-man to a zone at halftime because both Andrea McGee and Becky Williams were in foul trouble.

"I just thought we wouldn't foul as much (in the zone)," Wolf said. "The only thing I worry about there is boxing out and getting rebounds."

The Little Giants pulled down 21 rebounds in the second half, including five by McGee, and finished with 43 to Findlay's 42.

Despite the zone, the defensive intensity didn't waver.

"The thing that helps us out is we usually full-court press when we're in the zone," Wolf said. "I think that keeps them moving."

The Little Giants' decisive run was sparked by a pair of 3-point shots by Cortney Cominsky, who led Ross with 18 points.

Natalie Robbins, who finished with 13 points, gave Ross a 34-33 lead with 1:17 left in the third quarter. Cominsky followed with her second 3-pointer to close the period.

"We tried to play a triangle-and-two (defense on Cominsky and Williams) and then a box and one on Cortney," Lobb said. "They've probably seen that before and did a nice job setting some screens."

"They adjusted to what we were doing a little better than we did to what they were doing."

Ross, which missed 14 of 28 shots in the first half, made 10 of 23 in the second.

"I think we ran our offense in the second half," Wolf said. "If they run the box and one or triangle and two, we just run our guards and pick and that usually gets our player open."
