Anderson's reasoning

Poor '77 spring led to summer collapse

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Manager Sparky Anderson, laying down the law after The Collapse of '77, promises more basic baseball from the Cincinnati Reds.

"We're going back to baseball instead of bombardment," Anderson said Friday as the dethroned National

"We got too loose down here and I blame myself for that. There is no comparison to our attitude of a year ago and now. We're going to play together more and be together more," he said, announcing and end to letting veterans skip long road trips during spring training.
