Lytle, Bailey provide Ross with track identity

By TIMOTHY R. WOLFRUM
Sports editor

They don't discuss track and field much with each other, but Fremont Ross sprinters Fallon Bailey and Kelly Lytle admit they've had several discussions about each other.

It seems wherever the Little Giants roam, opposing runners want the lowdown on two of the fastest high-schoolers in north-west Ohio.

"They call him the bald guy," Bailey said of the close-cropped Lytle on Wednesday. "They ask, 'Where's he at. How's he doing.'"

"A lot of people have come up and asked how she's running," Lytle said. "They say, 'Wow, that girl from your school is pretty impressive.' I always agree with them. I say, 'Yes, she is. She is amazing.'"

As Lytle and Bailey prepare for their final meet as Little Giants, this weekend's Division I state championships in Dayton, the extent to which their sprinting prowess defines the Ross track program becomes more pronounced.

"I think at this point they are the identity because of their success, not just this year but forever, ever since they've been a part of this program," Ross coach Cathy Esposito said.

Lytle will compete in his fourth state meet (100-, 200-meter dashes) beginning Friday. Bailey is entering her second state meet (100-, 200-meter dashes, 400-met), but she is the one who has placed, coming in fourth in the 100-meter dash last season.

The two athletes, both of whom plan to run for Division I college programs, are proud of their place in Ross history. Lytle, who is bound for Princeton University, holds the school's 100 dash record, while Bailey, likely headed for Purdue University, has the 100 and 200 dash records.

"I think Fremont Ross has always been known for that (sprinting)," Lytle said. "With the last few years, since we've been competing at a high level and doing well in the postseason, I think people have come to know us."

Said Bailey, "Together, we've earned respect around here. You can't ask for more. ... Maybe we've earned it by coming out and working hard, but we're just out here doing what we love to do."

Although the two runners respect each other's abilities, they rarely talk about sprinting. That may be because their styles are so different. Lytle is a lithe glider; Bailey barrels down the straightaway like a freight train.

"When I watch those two run," Esposito said, "it never looks like Kelly's running as fast as he is. Whereas with Fallon, you can tell when she's working hard. ... To look at them, it looks like Fallon is working a lot harder to get that time."

Bailey and Lytle would rather joke and encourage each other than talk shop.

"We try to keep it light," Lytle said. "When we go out on the track, then we focus and try to take care of business."

Lytle overcame a second knee operation last fall to qualify for his fourth consecutive state meet. He finished fourth in the 100-meter dash and second in the 200-meter dash at last week's regional. Lytle enters state with the seventh-best regional time in the 100 and the fifth-best time in the 200.

Lytle hopes to place in the top six. He finished seventh in the 100 and 200 last year.

"I want to make the podium and place well," Lytle said. "But whatever I do down there will just kind of be icing on the cake after this whole year. There have been multiple times when I thought the season might be over. It's kind of a miracle that I even made it, I think. Whatever I do down there will just be something extra."

Bailey is coming from a different place. She is shooting for a state championship after winning last week's regional in the 100 dash. Bailey enters with the second-best regional time in the 100. She finished fourth in the 200 at regional.

"I'm going to try to the best of my ability," Bailey said. "I just have to have a good start, run a complete race, finish strong. I think it'd be pretty exciting (to win)."

Bailey will also anchor the girls 400 relay team, which is making its second consecutive trip to state. The team — members include Taneshia McKinstry, Keia Irons, Adrienne Robertson and Bailey — enters state with the seventh-best time.

McKinstry, Robertson and Bailey ran on last year's 400 team, which failed to qualify for the final. Irons replaced Tiffany Sweeney, who graduated after last season.

Smith 'done being nervous'

Ross senior discus thrower Jamie Smith qualified for her first state meet with less than her best at last week's regional.

She placed fourth at Amherst with a toss of 121 feet, 7 inches, more than four feet behind her personal best, a 125-9 accomplished when she won the Great Lakes League at the Ross track.

Smith is hoping to place and record a new personal best.

"I think I'm all prepared," Smith said Wednesday. "I just wanted to get there. If I come in dead last, so what. I'm done being nervous. I've already made it there, so I can chill out."

Bailey, Lytle advance to pair of finals

By ANDREW CARTER

DAYTON— Dreams of state gold came into focus Friday for girls relay teams from Fremont Ross, St. Joseph Central Catholic and Woodmore as the Ohio High School Athletic Association state track and field championships opened for business.

Despite temperatures that dipped far below normal for the month of June, area athletes booked their spots in today's finals with strong performances.

The Ross 400-meter relay team, consisting of Taneshia McKinstry, Keia Irons, Adrienne Robertson and Fallon Bailey, won its heat going away to qualify for the finals. The squad posted a combined time of 49.02 seconds, the second fastest qualifying time of the day behind Cleveland Collinwood.

The significance of their accomplishment was not lost on the group in the wake of their outstanding run.

"We knew what we had to do," McKinstry said. "We had to bring our time down which we did in this weather. You can't ask for anything better."

Irons, a junior making her first appearance at the state meet, was euphoric following the race.

"I feel so good right now," Irons said. "My spirits are just very high. I'm just happy."

Robertson echoed her teammates' sentiments and touted the hours of preparation the group has put into reaching this level.

"I feel so great," Robertson said. "We've been working on this all week. We've been doing handoffs. We've been working so hard and this is it, we deserve it. We put our work in for it. But we still have to race tomorrow."

The SJCC 400 relay team kept its dream season rolling right along by winning its heat in the Division III competition, posting a time of 51.76 seconds. Senior Tiffany Dicker, junior Meghan Merrill and freshmen Missy Tucker and Heather Doerner celebrated their success once again following the victory in their heat.

"It's real exciting, especially because two of our people are freshmen," Doerner said.

"Our goal was to get ourselves to state," Tucker said. "And we've been improving. We're just really excited that we made it."

The veteran Dicker was ecstatic over her team making such a strong showing in its first appearance at the state meet.

"It's so exciting for me to bring up two freshmen and we have such a healthy team," Dicker said. "We improve every meet."

Merrill said the SJCC squad had a definite mission in mind this season, especially with the success the team experienced in the district and regional.

"I'm so happy for the girls," Merrill said. "We've been running our butts off and we wanted to get to state and prove everybody wrong. And we got it."

Early in the Division II 1,600-meter relay, it appeared that the Woodmore team wouldn't advance, but a strong finish allowed the Wildcats to reach today's finals. The team of Renie Lavigne, Kori Slaters, Amanda Weidner and Katie Lavigne posted a time of 4:07.02, coming from sixth place to finish second in the heat.

"They were at least sixth, but they realized what they had to do," Woodmore coach Gary Whiting said. "There's no tomorrow at this point. They went out after it. Times were actually pretty good today considering the weather, but I think a little better warmup and a little better mental preparation maybe tomorrow. I think they'll be there."

Ross's Fallon Bailey continued her quest for a state crown in two other events Friday. She placed fourth in the first heat of the 200-meters, posting a time of 25.8 seconds.

Bailey also finished fourth in the 100 semifinals, recording a time of 12.15 seconds.

Kelly Lytle of Ross will also appear in the finals of two events today. Lytle finished fourth in the second heat of the 100 with a time of 10.87 seconds. He then placed third in the first heat of the 300 hurdles semifinals, turning in a time of 22.76 seconds.

Old Fort hurdler David Myers didn't realize he had qualified for today's finals until reporters approached him following the 110 hurdles. Myers, who was visibly upset at the prospect of not advancing, finished fourth in the second semifinal heat with a time of 15.58 seconds.

"It didn't really seem like I ran too good today," Myers said. "I was a little bit tight. I think mostly because of the weather. It's fast track, I just hope I can run faster tomorrow. I felt like when I crossed the line I had tow guys right beside me. I don't like that. I like being ahead of them. Hopefully, I won't be quite as nervous tomorrow."

DAVID MYERS of Old Fort finished fourth in his heat Friday, earning him a spot in today's 110-meter hurdles final.

David Skeel of Clyde reached the finals of the shot put, but did not reach the podium. Skeel's best throw in the semifinals was 52 feet, 2.75 inches. His top effort in the finals was 50-4.75.

"I just wish I would have done better in the finals, thrown a 53 or 54," Skeel said. "I'm real pleased with everything that I've accomplished. I'm excited about getting down here. I can't complain. I just wish I would have finished better."

Oak Harbor sophomore Mandy Quisno and freshman Jeanne Osborne saw action in their first state championship meet and gained some valuable experience. Quisno finished 12th in the shot put, managing a top throw of 34-8.75.

"Mandy moved up the ladder in the shot put, coming in here right around 16th," Oak Harbor coach John McKittrick said. "It's not exactly what she wanted, but finishing 12th her first time here as a sophomore, that's a pretty good showing. We're proud of her that she made it here and she came here to compete. She's got two more years to look forward to and I'm sure she's going to be here again, hopefully next year in both the discus and the shot."

Osborne and Genoa's Amanda Cedoz had two of the top six times in the 100-meter hurdles, but neither reached today's finals since only the top four places in each, not the top eight, earn finals berths.

Osborne's time was 16.77 seconds, while Cedoz posted a time of 16.79 seconds.

"Jeanne's a freshman and we couldn't be more happy that she made it here this year," McKittrick said. "Again it's not what we wanted; we were hoping she would make it to the finals and place, but it's a learning experience that's only going to make you stronger for the upcoming season."

Cedoz and Woodmore's Katie Lavigne came up short in their bids to reach the finals of the 300 hurdles. Cedoz placed sixth in the first semifinal heat with a time of 48.04 seconds, while Lavigne came in fifth in the second heat with a time of 47.46 seconds.

In other action Friday, Jamie Smith of Ross finished ninth in the finals of the discus. Her best throw in the finals covered 122-11.

"It wasn't exactly going how I wanted it," Smith said. "I tried to deal with as good as I could. I would have enjoyed throwing better. It looked good in practice, but it was warmer and sunny. But I had everybody cheering me on and it was good."

The SJCC boys 3,200 relay team, consisting of Mike Zimmerman, Adam Miller, Dan Chudzinski and Jeremy Velliquette, placed 11th in the finals of the event. Their time was 8:23.38.

The Woodmore girls 3,200 relay team placed 11th in the finals with a time of 10:07.29. The team included Kathy Camp, Cindy Dibert, Casey Ullinski and Meredith Magsig.

Ross star earns silver; St. Joe takes bronze

DAYTON — Fremont athletes made their presence known Saturday on the final day of competition at the Ohio state track and field championships.

Ross seniors Fallon Bailey and Kelly Lytle closed out their careers with strong performances, and the St. Joseph Central Catholic girls completed a dream season by reaching the podium.

Lytle ended an injury-filled senior season on a high note by finishing second in the 200-meter dash, thanks to an outstanding final 50 meters in which he outkicked John Kelly of Thomas Worthington and Copley's Elisha Adkins to finish as the runner-up to Kendall Stevens of Lima Senior.

Stevens' winning time was 21.76. Lytle's time was 22.03. Kelly finished with a time of 22.07 and Adkins posted a time of 22.12.

"It's been a long road this year with multiple injuries, but I worked hard and felt pretty good in the 200 and, thankfully, placed well," Lytle said. "I took out the first 50 real hard, because I knew they could see me being in the outside lane. I kind of backed off a little bit towards the end of the curve, then gave it all I had down the straightaway. I'll take second place."

"Wasn't that amazing?" Ross coach Cathy Esposito said of the 200. "That was such a great race for him. He looked so strong in that race. He's going here in the fall to Princeton to run track and it's great way for him to begin a new and more challenging season."

Lytle placed seventh in the 100, posting a time of 11.25 seconds.

"I felt all right coming out, but a lack of conditioning and being in shape from not running as much and good competition, but I ran all right," he said. "I'm happy."

Bailey stood on the podium following the 100 and 200 dashes and 400 relay as the Little Giants scored 11 points to finish 16th in the team standings.

Bailey placed sixth in both dashes, recording a time of 12.39 seconds in the 100 and coming back with a time of 26.12 seconds in the 200.

"For the 100, I came in here and tried to improve on last year's place and time, hoping that I could break the school record," Bailey said. "I finished in the top six, which is OK, but I would have liked a little bit more."

"In the 200, it was my first trip ever at state, and I just wanted to stand on the podium in the 200 and I accomplished that goal," she added. "I would have liked to run a 25 or possibly a 24. It was kind of disappointing that I ran a 26, but it got to me to the podium."

Bailey ran the anchor leg of the Ross 400 relay team that set a school record by running the event in 48.78 Saturday to finish fourth in the state.

"We came in here trying to run a 48, and we came in with second-fastest time," Bailey said. "We knew that if we ran a 48 timed fully automatic that it would get us there and that's what we came to do."

Bailey's relay teammates — senior Taneshia McKinstry and junior Keia Irons and Adrienne Robertson — echoed her sentiments.

"What a way to go out, with graduation tomorrow (Sunday)," McKinstry said.

"We made it, a 48.7, that's great," Robertson said.

"We were very good today and we had very good weather," Irons said.

"You can't ask for anything more."

Esposito praised her team for its performance at the state meet.

"The girls as a team placed 16th," she said. "How many teams were there? Sixty-three or something like that. You can't complain about that and that was done by six girls."

St. Joseph Central Catholic's girls 400 relay team completed an amazing run through the post-season by finishing third in the Division III finals. The team of senior Tiffany Dicker, junior Meghan Merrill and freshmen Missy Tucker and Heather Doerner set yet another school record by recording a time of 50.91 seconds Saturday.

"It's just awesome, knowing that I came down here three years and haven't ever got to run on this track," Dicker said. "And now it's my senior year and running and placing. Our goal was top three, top three, top three, and knowing that we got this is awesome. It's just a great experience."

Patrick Henry won the race with a time of 50.43 seconds, while Spencerville was second with a time of 50.48 seconds. Johnstown Monroe was fourth with a time of 50.95 seconds.

"It was a really close race," Doerner said. "I could see the other girls coming up behind me from the corner of my eyes. I knew I just had to throw myself at the finish line. When I found that we did get third, it was awesome. It just felt so good."

Reaching the podium Saturday was the culmination of a long road for a team that featured two first-year varsity athletes and quite possibly the beginning of a great run for the SJCC relay team.

"I'm hoping to come back the next three years," Tucker said. "In the beginning, the parents doubted us because of our new coaches. We owe it all to coach (Johnny) Alridge and coach Kenny (Morresette). If it wasn't for them, we wouldn't be where we're at. We wanted to prove the parents wrong. They thought we weren't even going to make it past districts, and we made it to states and now the finals."

Jeremy Velliquette of SJCC finished eighth in the finals of 800 run. His time was 1:59.46.

Old Fort senior David Myers ended his career on the podium in the 110 hurdles. Myers, who was moved from Lane 1 to Lane 8 due to a computer timing error, finished fifth in the race, posting a time of 15.38 seconds.

"It was a little bit better than yesterday (Friday)," Myers said of his performance. "The wind didn't really bother me. My coach told me that Lane 1 is supposed to be the last one that gets the wind, no matter what place you're in. But the computer timed me wrong and they put me out in Lane 8. I would have rather been in one. My time probably would have been a little bit faster."

"I wanted to beat my (time of) 14.85 and I didn't get it today," Myers said. "Fifteen-three is slow. I felt like I was about the fifth one out of the blocks. I'm pleased with everything, though."
